GOA BOARD

GOA BOARD OF SECONDARY AND HIGHER SECONDARY EDUCATION

ALTO BETIM – GOA 403521

Subject: Political Science

Std: XII (effective and in-force from June 2022)

Course III – Book I Contemporary World Politics

Course Rationale:

The political map of world has undergone a dramatic change after the end of the cold war. The present course is the introduction to this new world politics that we live in. It aims at encouraging and equipping the students to think about India's place in the world. It seeks to impart relevant information and develop a perspective so as to initiate the students in the discipline of international relations and to a limited extent, comparative politics. The course moves away from the conventional focus of introductory world politics in many ways. Its focus is clearly on the post 1990 world, with a brief introduction to the cold war and bipolar world to serve as the background. The emphasis here is not only on relation among nations: the course also seeks to introduce the students to post democratization political system across the world and to processes of globalization in internal and external relations of the nations. While paying attention to the role of the big powers, it gives careful attention to alternative centers of power and the global South. It seeks to shift the focus away from the formal description of the UN and its organs, to new institution of global governance. Given its emphasis on locating India in contemporary world politics, the course does not limit the discussion on India to a chapter on India's foreign policy. Instead, it seeks to situate India in context of each of the themes and regions discussed in course, while paying special attention to India's relations with its neighbors. An extensive use of maps is strongly recommended for this course.

Learning Objectives:

- Enable the students to expand their horizon beyond India and make sense of the political map of contemporary world.
- Familiarize the students with some of the key political events and processes in the post cold war era
- Equip students to be conscious of the way in which global events and processes shape our everyday lives.
- Strengthen their capacity for political analysis by thinking of contemporary developments in a historical perspective.

GOA BOARD OF SECONDARY AND HIGHER SECONDARY EDUCATION

ALTO BETIM –GOA 403521

Subject: Political Science

Std: XII (Effective from June 2022)

Course IV Book II: Politics in India since Independence

Course Rationale:-

It is a common experience that the younger generation of citizens does not know very much about the first and formative fifty years in the history of independent India. They often know more about India of 1920's and 1940's than they do about any decade in post independence period including even the 1990's. This course seeks to fill this lacuna with a view to providing the students with information and perspective that would help them in their further study of Political Science and their role as a citizen. That is why there is a focus on political history; other dimensions are brought in only to the extent they impinge on political history. In doing so, the course seeks to incorporate the lessons learnt from the discipline of history; that history must not become a mere chronicle of dates and events, that it should be integrated into an analytical narrative, that the history of politics must not become a narrow history of national political events and personalities and that history writing must not take place from a narrow partisan angle. The syllabus has to be illustrative rather than comprehensive; the idea is to identify some major developments in any period and then illustrate it with some events and personalities at the national level as well as in a select state or region. It is suggested that some of the recent political developments should be handled in general terms avoiding reference to persons active in today's politics.

Learning Objectives:-

- Enable students to be familiar with some of the key political events and figures in the post-independence period
- Develop skills of political analysis through events and processes of recent history
- Develop their capacity to link macro process with micro situations and their own life.
- Encourage the students to take a historical perspective of making sense of the contemporary India.
