Activity I Reading Comprehension

Read the conversation between Rahul and his father. Answer the questions given below.

Father: Hey there, my son! What's on your mind today?

Rahul: Dad, I was thinking about robots! I want to make one when I grow up.

Father: That's awesome! Robots are really cool. What kind of robot do you want to make?

Rahul: A robot that can play games with me! And help me with my homework.

Father: That sounds a great idea! Robots can be really helpful. Do you know that robots are already being used in many places, like factories and hospitals?

Rahul: Wow, really! What do they do there?

Father: Well, in factories, robots can help build things like cars and computers. And in hospitals, robots help doctors and nurses take care of patients.

Rahul: That's so cool! I can't wait to make my own robot. Can you help me get started?

Father: Of course, my son. We can start by learning about programming and robotics together. There are many easy ways to start it, like building a simple robot using a kit or even using a programming app on a tablet.

Rahul: Yay! Thank you, Dad! I'm going to make the best robot ever!

Father: I'm excited to see what you create.
